

Designation of Excellence Awards

The Designation of Excellence Awards were created to honor designation holders at three distinct levels: the CBA, CBF and CCE. Each honoree must have an unrelenting pursuit of excellence through enhanced and improved knowledge. Equally important is the desire to share that knowledge through speaking, teaching or mentoring.

Student & Instructor Awards

The Instructor of the Year is a person who is not only passionate about sharing their hard-earned knowledge, but also challenging their students for more. The Student of the Year is a person who takes the challenge of hard work, compounded with work, family, professional and civic responsibilities, head on.

Mentor of the Year

Mentor of the Year is a person who is defined as a wise and trusted teacher or guide. For some, guiding, nurturing and motivating those in need is innate.

O. D. Glaus Credit Executive of Distinction

As with the National Credit Executive Award, the O.D. Glaus Credit Executive of Distinction seeks to acknowledge exemplary professionals within the field of credit. Candidates must possess the attributes that epitomized O.D Glaus, Jr., CCE and champion issues dear to him.

Alice M.H. McGregor Award of Exceptional Achievement

This highly prestigious award recognizes creative approaches and consistently high performance that benefit the recipient's company, affiliate, the national organization and the business credit profession. Alice M. H. McGregor award recipients serve as role models; they are leaders rather than followers, set standards for others, and apply their professional expertise outside of their companies.
