Letter from...

Mary Moore, CBA
CFDD National Chairman

Greetings,

I hope you survived the holidays and all the commitments, both personal and work-related, that the end of the year brought. It is a new year with a new set of opportunities. The current economic conditions make our jobs more vital than ever. Every day we face new challenges. In my company, I know there is never a dull moment, and I am sure that you are experiencing that too. I hope that your companies understand the value of NACM and CFDD. We need each other more now than ever before. CFDD — Today's Investment, Tomorrow's Success.

Speaking of value, have you completed your CFDD National Scholarship application? What a wonderful way to show your employer the value of your membership! Scholarships help our employers stretch their budgets for professional development and training, while members continue to develop the skills they need to stay up-to-date on credit trends and information. But you can't receive a scholarship if you don't apply! Don't miss out on this wonderful opportunity that you enjoy as a benefit of your CFDD membership. I hope we see a record number of scholarship applications this year.

Make sure that your chapter is planning to submit an application for each of the chapter awards—Regular Meeting, Special Meeting (seminar or workshop) and Publicity. What a great way for your chapter to be recognized! I am sure each chapter has a member deserving to be nominated for the Distinguished Member Achievement (DMA) Award. In addition, you may want to consider nominating a member for either the Marilyn Daugherty Spirit Award or the Mentor Award. Visit our website for the new application forms (www.nacm.org/cfdd/awards.shtml). Applications can be downloaded and completed in Microsoft Word. Then, they can be sent to CFDD National as an email attachment. You are no longer required to submit an original form and three copies.

I hope to see each of you at NACM's Annual Credit Congress and Exposition in Orlando in June. It's a comprehensive program designed specifically for credit professionals, and several sessions are being led by CFDD members. And don't forget to attend the CFDD Annual Awards and Installation Luncheon, where we acknowledge the significant achievements of our chapters and members.

Congratulations to Pam Foreman, CCE for joining our Board of Directors as of January 1, 2009 as the CFDD Director on the NACM National Board. You can read more about Pam—her service to the credit community, her work and her interests—in the newsletter's member spotlight. We acknowledge again the contributions of Dennis Thomassie, CCE for serving in this role for the last three years, and we express our appreciation for all that he has done to represent our organization at the national level.

Your National Board of Directors is always interested in hearing from you, the members. If you have suggestions on how CFDD National can be of assistance to you, please email me at mmoore@csystems.com or feel free to contact any of our board members.

Member Spotlight

Meet Pam Foreman, CCE, CFDD Director on the NACM Board

The way Pam Foreman, CCE's story begins is familiar to many in the world of B2B credit. "Like so many of us, I 'fell' into this," she said. "I had a job as a secretary and had to make collection calls in my 'spare time.' A few years later, I took a job as a secretary for a collection department of a large company. I soon became a full-time credit/collections specialist for that company and the rest is, as they say, history."

Her commitment, passion and uncommon gratitude to NACM and CFDD, however, are what make Foreman stand out in the credit profession, and it's these qualities that have allowed her to become CFDD's current director on the NACM Board.

The collection calls that Foreman made in her "spare time" as a secretary started in 1974 and since then she's accumulated a wealth of experience both through her career and by taking advantage of NACM's and CFDD's prospects for education and personal and professional growth. Currently, she serves as the manager of administration for Mission Janitorial Supplies in San Diego, CA, a distributor she's been with for the last decade. Aside from handling credit and collections, Foreman's role as manager of administration also includes human resources management and various other administrative challenges. "We have fewer than 50 employees, but are growing, having just recently opened a branch office," she said. "We sell to all types of industries, but the ones I worry about the most are the cleaning contractors—no assets and slow payment." Thanks to her experiences at Mission, Foreman is no stranger to the challenges credit professionals face in today's world. "The credit/collection side is a challenge in that I am the only one handling this function. The overall accounts receivable is only around $2 million, but there are over 1,200 accounts to maintain," she said.

Foreman first joined CFDD in 1992 and attended the Credit Administration Program (CAP) and Advanced Credit Administrator Program

(ACAP), attaining her Certified Credit Executive (CCE) designation two years after joining, in 1994. Since then, she's gone on to give back to the credit profession by teaching, a task in which she takes great pride. "I think my biggest accomplishment is that I give back through teaching classes and my involvement with CFDD, both on the local and national levels," she said. "I taught CAP and ACAP classes for 14 years." Foreman's zeal for teaching didn't go unnoticed by her students or the NACM-CFDD community, and she was named NACM-Robert Half Instructor of the Year in 2001.

But as grateful as CFDD and NACM are to Foreman for all she's given back, she herself feels as though she owes a debt of gratitude to the organizations themselves. "I can't even begin to say what my membership has given me!" said Foreman. "The San Diego Credit Association was there for me when I lost jobs, referring me to positions for which I was hired. I was attending the CAP classes when my life went into turmoil. The friendships I made there helped me through that. I joined CFDD and, with a little nudge, joined the board and became an officer."

"CFDD gave me so much more than educational opportunities: I gained confidence and self-respect and found MYSELF. The leadership skills I learned as an officer and board member have carried over into my career," she added, urging others to take full advantage of what NACM and CFDD offer to the credit community. "I just can't say enough about the value of CFDD membership, but the key is to embrace all that it has to offer."

In her spare time now, Foreman plays competitive soccer, having played on the same team for 23 years, belongs to a book club and works on fundraisers, including, most recently, Bead for Life, an organization that helps women in Uganda lift themselves out of poverty by selling bead jewelry they make out of paper.

Chapter Spotlight: Phoenix

The Eagles of the Phoenix Chapter

CFDD Phoenix was reborn in 1996 when some members from the local credit education group re-established the link with CFDD National. From there, the members enthusiastically participated in regional and national activities and hosted the CFDD Golden West Conference in 2000. Reflecting the group's intent focus on education and professional development, more than one-third of CFDD Phoenix's 67 members are NACM professional designation holders.

The current success of the CFDD Phoenix Chapter is directly related to its leadership. In every volunteer organization, there are usually a few dynamic individuals who are responsible for laying the groundwork for the organization's success. For the CFDD Phoenix Chapter, that groundwork has been laid by its leadership, directed by Sheila Roames, CCE, president, and Gwen Stroops, CCE, vice president/program chair.

Sheila and Gwen work tirelessly for the chapter to ensure its members invaluable meetings with solid educational programming. The members, who attend the monthly meetings, recognize the monthly program as a value-added tool for credit professionals. It has become the goal of the Phoenix Chapter to share this tool with co-workers and other credit professionals, following CFDD's vision statement: to dynamically impact NACM's global vision by being the leader in educational programming and direction, thereby setting industry standards for professional excellence.

Phoenix's leadership spirit has spread contagiously throughout its chapter board members.

- Membership Chair Ellen Wodiuk initiated a successful membership drive, cleverly using gas cards as prizes, when gas prices were at their highest. Ellen's creativity in grabbing onto current events afforded the chapter several new members.

- Publicity Chair Ann Beam, CBF created and launched the chapter's website, www.cfddphoenix.org, which provides information on local CFDD programs and activities. Ann has also created a useful and informative newsletter that is distributed to the membership via email. The newsletter has become a marketing tool to prospective members, displaying professionalism, networking capabilities and the value CFDD provides upon joining the organization.
- Chapter Treasurer Shannon Bagshaw, CBA spends endless hours on monthly billings and maintaining receivables and accounting needs.
- Dee Polito, CBA, member at large, offers her energetic willingness to serve the chapter however and whenever needed.
- Eric Volland, hospitality chair, ensures that the luncheon meetings are flavorful, comfortable and affordable. He also provides evaluation sheets at each meeting, allowing for feedback from the members. The board reviews the evaluations each month to stay in tune with members' needs. Listening to the needs of the membership directly affected the change from an evening meeting to a luncheon meeting, which allowed for increased membership participation.

The Phoenix Chapter is grateful for the energy, spirit and dedication of its leadership. But, as most will realize, leadership is only the guiding hand for a successful organization. The real shining light of the CFDD Phoenix Chapter is its dedicated membership. Phoenix continues to experience record numbers of attendance at monthly meetings, not only because of the program topics, but because it is "CFDD Day." Its membership loyally devotes time each month to share experiences, network with their peers and elevate their knowledge as credit professionals.

The chapter has never had to turn down a scholarship request due to lack of funds. Phoenix members generously support the chapter's scholarship program by participating in the monthly meeting raffle, of which 100% of the proceeds goes to the scholarship fund.

So many members have experienced the rewards obtained through education and the accomplishment of earning a professional designation. As one member states, "It has meant promotion, increase in salary and pride in moving myself forward. Working with one's peers, who have the same goals and are willing to help each other conquer those goals, has been a most rewarding experience." The Phoenix Chapter membership can be proud of its continued support of each other's triumphs and successes.

Just like the mythical bird that never dies, CFDD Phoenix has awakened from being a once dormant chapter to flourish and grow, thanks to the energy, spirit and dedication of its leadership and membership.

We currently offer 24 different scholarships in seven categories. Scholarship applications are available on the CFDD website (www.nacm.org/cfdd/awards.shtml). CFDD remains committed to aiding credit professionals in their career development. Here's what members have said about receiving a CFDD scholarship!

Receiving a scholarship was wonderful; it gave me the opportunity to go to Kansas City, where I had never been, to meet other credit managers from many different areas. Receiving a scholarship gave me more learning tools to use, but most of all it gave me hope that we still have opportunities to learn with NACM. Thank You, NACM-CFDD!

Joann Herrera, Credit Manager
Core-Mark
Albuquerque, NM

In June 2008, I received notification that I had been selected to receive a $350 National CFDD Scholarship Award to attend the upcoming CFDD seminar of my choice. This was a prestigious honor for me since I had never attended a CFDD National Conference before. I met so many wonderful people from all over the United States. If you have never submitted an application for scholarship before, I encourage you to do so this year.

Marilyn Poremba, CCE, Credit Manager
Mayer Electric Supply
Birmingham, AL

A CFDD scholarship meant that I could attend a CFDD National Conference that I otherwise would not have been able to go to. The scholarship gave me the tool to "sell" the value of my attendance at the conference to my boss. Without the scholarship, that would have meant a lost opportunity for learning new skills, reconnecting with cherished friends and missing a chance to meet with potential business partners.
